QUEENS COLLEGE

A MESSAGE FROM President Frank H. Wu

CONGRATULATIONS TO THE CLASS OF 2026!

Your hard work has paid off. You are officially graduates of Queens College!

As you look back on your time at Queens College, I hope you leave with fond memories of your experience here, whether it's walking through the Quad with friends, participating in meaningful clubs or sports, or attending campus events that brought our community together.

But behind each of those memories is a story of hard work and perseverance. Earning a college degree is filled with challenges that test your resolve—whether it's late-night study sessions, juggling school and personal responsibilities, or just enduring a difficult commute to campus. Be proud of what you have achieved and remember the sense of accomplishment you feel today. Carry that feeling with you and let it motivate you as you pursue your future goals.

But remember that you did not reach this moment alone. There were surely many people who helped you along the way. As your degree is conferred today, be sure to thank the family, friends, faculty, and staff who supported you.

And while today marks the end of your time at Queens College, it also signifies a new and exciting chapter. As you move on to the next stage of life, I encourage you to keep learning, stay curious, and never stop striving for excellence. Wherever you go next, to an exciting career, graduate school, or personal exploration, I hope you carry the lessons you learned here, both inside and outside the classroom. And remember that success is not only about personal achievement, but about making a difference in the lives of others. Stay true to the Queens College motto: Discimus ut Serviamus. We learn so that we may serve.

On this meaningful occasion, I congratulate you once again. I look forward to welcoming you back in the future—whether at Homecoming or another alumni event. Congratulations, Class of 2026, and best wishes for all that lies ahead.

RECESSIONAL

Henry Purcell, "Trumpet Tune," and Jeremiah Clarke, "Trumpet Voluntary"

Today's Commencement is being livestreamed, enabling families and friends around the world to witness the entire ceremony.
Queens College students come from more than 145 countries, making it one of the nation's most diverse colleges.

Graduates and guests are requested to remain seated until members of the platform party and the faculty have left the ceremonial area.
Scheduled departmental ceremonies will begin 30 minutes after the conclusion of the college-wide ceremony (see map on pages 60-61).

Marie Maynard Daly '42

Doctor of Humane Letters, Honoris Causa

Physicians and Surgeons, and for 26 years at Yeshiva University's Albert Einstein College of Medicine, where she was a tenured associate professor of biochemistry.

Her ground-breaking research has proved essential to generations of scientists. Notably, Daly's work on the cell nucleus, histones, nucleic acids, and protein synthesis was a precursor to modern genetics-related research and contributed to breakthroughs in understanding the structure and function of DNA. She also explored dietary connections to heart disease, and was one of the first to establish the relation between high blood pressure and high cholesterol.

In addition, Daly was instrumental in creating scholarship funds and programs to open pathways for women and African American students in science and medicine. Among her many efforts, she administered a mentoring program at Einstein, and founded the Ivan C. and Helen H. Daly Scholarship at Queens College (named in memory of her parents).

During her lifetime, Daly was a fellow of the American Association for the Advancement of Science and of the American Cancer Society. In 1999 she was named one of the top 50 women in science, engineering, and technology by the National Technical Association. In recent years she has begun to receive the greater recognition she deserved. Notably, the American Chemical Society has dedicated journal issues to her impact, hosted a symposium in her honor, and launched a National Historic Landmark Designation at Columbia University, also in her honor. Einstein College hosts an annual lecture called the Marie M. Daly Memorial Celebration. In her native Queens, P.S. 360Q was named the Dr. Marie M. Daly Academy of Excellence.

In conferring this posthumous degree, Queens College hopes to honor the scientific and personal achievements of a distinguished alumna who left a legacy of leading-edge research that has had lasting benefits. She also worked to open the door to others. In her research choices and use of her public voice, she exemplified the Queens College motto: "We learn so that we may serve." She remains an extraordinary intellect, trailblazer, role model, and contributor to the public good.

A GIFTED SCIENTIST, Marie Maynard Daly Clark (1921–2003) conducted research in biochemistry that is considered foundational, having paved the way for advances in molecular biology, cell metabolism, and cardiovascular disease. Credited with research contributing to discovery of the DNA double helix, she was an important scientist whose career spanned four decades. Daly is significant, too, for winning acceptance not only for herself—an African American woman and daughter of an immigrant—but also opening the doors of higher education and science to other women and people of color.

A brilliant young student, Daly excelled at every step of her academic and professional careers and persevered despite social and economic obstacles. After graduating from the prestigious Hunter College High School, she attended Queens College, completing her BA/MA degree magna cum laude. She went on to earn a master's at New York University and a PhD at Columbia University—a stunning accomplishment in 1947, becoming the first African American woman in the United States to be awarded a doctorate in chemistry.

Daly's career took off with a postdoctoral fellowship and seven-year research appointment at the Rockefeller Institute; she later held an appointment at Goldwater Memorial Hospital. She taught briefly at Howard University, then at Columbia's College of

Lucy Freeman Sandler '51

Doctor of Humane Letters, Honoris Causa

With an international reputation as a meticulous art historian and scholar of medieval manuscripts, Sandler is known for her encyclopedic knowledge of psalters and other illustrated texts used by clerics and laypeople in the Middle Ages. Over her career she has curated significant exhibitions at the British Library and other prestigious institutions, and she has authored groundbreaking works such as The Psalter of Robert de Lisle in the British Library; Gothic Manuscripts, 1285–1385; Omne Bonum: A Fourteenth-Century Encyclopedia of Universal Knowledge; and Penned & Painted: The Art and Meaning of Books in Medieval and Renaissance Manuscripts. Her work helped enliven the study of medieval art with new methodologies and questions and, reflecting her lasting impact, it continues to inspire emerging scholars.

Numerous distinctions attest to the high regard in which she is held. Sandler is a fellow of the Medieval Academy of America, the Society of Antiquaries of London, and the Royal Historical Society, and she is a member of the Visiting Committee of the Manuscript Department of the Morgan Library and Museum. Past president of the College Art Association, she has received fellowships from the National Endowment for the Humanities and the Guggenheim Foundation. She is profiled in The Dictionary of Art Historians and was honored with an edited volume, Tributes to Lucy Freeman Sandler: Studies in Illuminated Manuscripts.

In a lifetime of deep and dedicated research and teaching, Sandler exemplifies the core values of a liberal arts education and the vital role of scholarship in preserving and enhancing cultural history. In recognition of her pedagogical and scholarly excellence, her distinction and impacts on her field, and her service to the pursuit of knowledge, we are proud to confer upon her the degree of Doctor of Humane Letters, honoris causa.

A DISTINGUISHED SCHOLAR AND TEACHER, Lucy Freeman Sandler is one of the world's foremost authorities on medieval illuminated manuscripts from Europe. Now retired from teaching, she continues to publish critically acclaimed work and to inspire young scholars in her field.

At Queens College, Sandler—a watercolorist—completed a BFA in studio art and was encouraged to become an art historian by Professor Frances Gray Godwin, the respected medievalist credited with co-founding the Godwin-Ternbach Museum. She pursued graduate study in art history at Columbia University, receiving her MA in a storied department where her mentors, Meyer Schapiro and John H. Plummer, were giants in the field. That led to the opportunity to work with Harry Bober at New York University's (NYU) Institute of Fine Arts, where she earned a PhD.

She has had an illustrious career at NYU, where she chaired the art history department for 14 years and is now the Helen Gould Sheppard Professor of Art History, Emerita. In retirement she was awarded an Emeritus Professor Fellowship by the Andrew W. Mellon Foundation, becoming one of a relative handful of scholars to be so recognized.

Donovan Richards, Jr.

Queens College President's Medal

A proven leader in the New York City Council, he served with distinction for seven years. As chair of the Committee on Public Safety and the Committee on Environmental Protection, he spearheaded critical reforms in policing and led the city's recovery efforts following the devastation of Hurricane Sandy, ensuring that vulnerable communities were not left behind.

A leader for the World's Borough, Mr. Richards assumed the office of the Queens Borough President during a pivotal moment in New York City's history. Since 2020, he has been a tireless advocate for over 2.4 million residents, overseeing a vast portfolio that includes land use, economic development, and the allocation of hundreds of millions of dollars in capital funding. His leadership has ensured that vital resources reach Queens schools, hospitals, and parks, strengthening the foundation of every neighborhood he represents.

A DEDICATED PUBLIC SERVANT, Donovan Richards, Jr. has spent his career championing the diverse communities of Queens, rising to become a transformative leader as the borough's president.

A native of Queens, Mr. Richards attended Jamaica High School and later earned a degree in aviation management from Vaughn College in East Elmhurst. Deeply affected by the impact of gun violence in his youth, he turned personal tragedy—the loss of a close friend as a teenager—into a lifelong commitment to public service.

An ambitious and devoted civic leader, Mr. Richards began his career in public service at a young age, holding several staff positions in the New York City Council. In 2011, at just 28 years old, he served as chief of staff to Councilman James Sanders Jr. In 2013, he went on to win a special election to succeed Sanders as councilman for New York's 31st District.

A champion for inclusivity, Mr. Richards has worked tirelessly to ensure that the diversity of Queens is reflected in its leadership. He has reformed the Community Board appointment process to be more transparent and representative of the borough's demographics, and he continues to advocate for small businesses and immigrant communities through initiatives like the Queens Small Business Grant Program and the creation of the Immigrant Welcome Center.

In recognition of his exemplary career and dedicated service to the public good, we are proud to present Donovan Richards, Jr. with the Queens College President's Medal.

Welcome to Alumnihood!

CONGRATULATIONS, CLASS OF 2026! Your hard work and determination have brought you to this incredible moment. As you start this new chapter, remember that you're now part of a community of over 120,000 Queens College alumni. Your achievements have not only made a difference in your own life but have also inspired others. The Queens College Alumni Relations Office is here to celebrate your success and support you as you continue to make your mark. We're offering special prices on commemorative bricks for a limited time, so you can create a lasting legacy that will be cherished for years to come. Best wishes for the exciting journey ahead!

About Commencement

Today's ceremonies are rooted in centuries-old traditions. Commencement—from the Old French word commencement, which means “beginning”—was the name of the ceremony at which university graduates (then called “masters”) were initiated into the teaching profession in medieval Europe. A commencement ceremony acknowledges the success of an institution as well as its students.

The first Queens College commencement ceremony—honoring the 198-member graduating class—took place on Monday, June 16, 1941. Students, their families, and friends had decorated the Quadrangle with flowers brought from their homes. The procession of dignitaries, which included President Paul Klapper, Dean of Faculty Margaret Kiely, Judge Charles Colden, and commencement speaker Mayor Fiorello LaGuardia, was soaked by a sudden downpour.

This is Queens College's one hundred and second commencement. When the college first opened, commencement was held twice a year. Now, although degrees are also awarded in September and February, formal graduation exercises are held in late May or early June. Recipients of degrees awarded during the year are invited to participate in the formal commencement ceremonies.

Marshals are members of the faculty and staff who have volunteered to assist at commencement. They wear academic gowns, carry wooden batons, and perform various organizational assignments, such as assembling and leading the candidates in procession.

The academic procession is a tradition stemming from early universities. Centuries ago, such processions were arranged by the clergy and followed the familiar order of religious processions, with the place of honor at the end. In today's ceremony, the president, chief marshal, and members of the platform party—including provost, department chairs, board of trustee members and representatives from CUNY, the deans who represent the candidates, college officials, the honorary degree recipients, the commencement speaker, student representatives, and various public dignitaries—will march down the middle aisle, followed by the faculty. Also, four columns of graduates will march in simultaneously, with master's degree candidates at the head of each column. Banners will identify each division. Special guests for today's ceremony will be members of the 40th anniversary Class of 1986, 50th anniversary Class of 1976, 60th anniversary Class of 1966, and 70th anniversary Class of 1956.

The chief marshal, traditionally a senior faculty member who has provided long and faithful service to the college, leads the platform party and serves as mace bearer. Though now purely ceremonial, the tradition of the mace bearer dates back to medieval England when an official taking office or opening court needed a bodyguard. In those times, the mace was a formidable weapon, held ready to protect the official. The chief marshal carries the Queens College mace, which has historic significance. Made of dark cherry wood, the mace is adorned with red granite and sterling silver and embedded with a bronze medal showing the original college seal; the seal bears the college's motto, Discimus ut Serviamus, Latin for “We learn so that we may serve.” The medal was originally presented to the first registrar of the college, Howard Knag, who donated it for the mace. The chief marshal wears a chain of office that includes sterling silver links inscribed with the names and years of past chief marshals. The chain and current mace were a gift from Professor Emeritus John B. Haney, himself a former chief marshal. President Frank H. Wu will also wear a chain of office listing past presidents of the college and their tenures. Donated by past chief marshals, it was provided thanks to a collaboration between former chief marshal Jared Rifkin and Joseph Brostek '55, long-time director of commencement.

The gowns worn by the graduates represent a dignified and truly democratic custom. At the moment when the degrees are conferred, all the gowned graduates are made equal. Until well into the nineteenth century, it was customary for many American students to wear gowns while in daily residence at college or at meals. Now, with the exception of some British and European schools, few colleges request that students wear these gowns except at graduation exercises.

Caps, called mortarboards—with a tassel hanging on the right side—are worn by degree candidates. As the college president confers the degrees, the candidates symbolically move the tassels to the left side of their mortarboard. Graduates may wear different color cords to represent honor societies and special programs.

While academic costumes have been used in this country since colonial times, there was no uniformity until the late 1890s. Today, the gowns of most universities are black. The hoods worn by the faculty indicate their degrees. The silk lining of the hood gives the color or colors of the institution granting the degree.

Traditionally, the shortest hood is the bachelor's, the longest and broadest is the doctor's, and the master's and specialist's are midway between (although Queens College bachelor's degree candidates do not wear hoods, some may wear red satin stoles). The color of the velvet binding or edging designates academic disciplines. Among the more frequently seen colors are:

Drab	Accounting

A degree is awarded for successful completion of a program of study. The first known academic degree, the doctorate (from the Latin word docere, to teach), was granted by the University of Bologna in the mid-twelfth century.

At today's ceremonies, those who will be hooded represent all students in their respective degree categories.

School and departmental ceremonies and receptions that are being held today will take place approximately thirty minutes after the college-wide ceremony. For locations, please consult the map on pages 54-55. Programs identifying school and departmental award winners may be distributed at these ceremonies. Please note that some departments have already held their ceremonies and receptions prior to Commencement Day.
