

General Minor in Anthropology

The Minor in Anthropology is designed to provide broad coverage of anthropology and consists of six courses totaling 18 credits. Three of these courses are chosen from our four 100-level courses that introduce the four subfields of anthropology: cultural anthropology, biological anthropology, archaeology, and linguistic anthropology. Students may choose any three and the courses do not need to be taken in numerical order. Following these introductory courses, students choose one of our four Essentials courses; these courses each take a deeper dive into one of the four subfields. The final two courses for the minor can be any anthropology course at the 200-level or above; these two courses may consist of Essentials courses in other subfields, or they may be area-based or topical courses in any subfield or a combination of the two.

To explore the possibility of declaring a Minor in Anthropology, stop by the department office in 314 Powdermaker Hall and request to meet with a Faculty Advisor.

If you have decided to declare a minor, complete the Declaration of Major/Minor form (found on our website: qc.cuny.edu/academics/anthropology/program-overview) and attach it to an email request to the Department Chair (Professor Larissa Swedell: LSwedell@qc.cuny.edu).
