

The Honors Minor in Business And Liberal Arts

Bridging academics with leadership, business & professional skill development

A unique multidisciplinary approach to the study of the professional world, the Honors BALA Minor program combines the study of the arts and sciences with carefully selected exposure to basic business principles to provide an effective link between your liberal arts interests and your career aspirations.

Designed with the input of top professionals with an eye toward preparing students for career success, effective oral and written communication are emphasized throughout the program as well as analytical decision-making and problem-solving – critical skills necessary to excel in today's competitive environments, whatever your chosen field.
